

LOST FROM GLADIATOR

TWENTY-EIGHT MEN ARE DEAD AND MISSING.

AMERICAN SHIP NOT BLAMED

Crowded Condition of the Solent Is Subject of Comment by London Newspaper—Great Arsenal Is Too Near Port of Southampton.

Associated Press Dispatch.

London, April 26.—The total number of dead and missing of the Gladiator's crew as a result of the collision between the American liner St. Paul and the British cruiser off the Isle of Wight is twenty-eight. The admiralty late tonight issued a revised list of the names of the Gladiator victims, which includes an additional death in the hospital, bringing the total deaths known up to five. Twenty-three men are missing according to the list and six are suffering severe injuries.

The secretary of the admiralty expresses fear that there are still eight others missing but is unable to give the names as yet.

No Blame Attached.

London, April 26.—The London morning newspapers are mostly of the opinion that no blame attaches to any one in the Gladiator disaster. The Daily Telegraph, however, calls attention to the fact that the world's greatest naval arsenal at Portsmouth, within a few miles, is approached by the same narrow channel as the rapidly growing commercial port of Southampton. The Solent, continues the Telegraph, probably is the most frequented waterway in the world, and the development of these two ports in close proximity is little short of a national misfortune.

The paper suggests a careful reconsideration of the rules governing navigation there and no loss of time in placing the larger portion of the fleet on the east coast.

beautiful, and some of the carriages were splendidly decorated.

Prizes for Bicycles Riders.

Shortly after the arrival of the president the prizes were distributed among the cyclists. The first prize was accorded to a beautiful group formed by twelve cyclists from the Bicycle Club of Puebla, who came to the capital purposely to enter the contest. The machines were connected by iron bars and supported a huge basket of white roses.

A second prize was accorded to Angel Ramirez, who impersonated the cavalier of the Mancha, Don Quixote, in the wind mill, the wheel of which was moved by the machine. Another second prize was awarded Luis Montiel, who rode a bicycle covered with flowers, he himself wearing a Pierrot costume and conveying a baby girl dressed as Columbine. Carlos Ojeda rode a bicycle with a simple floral decoration, bearing a flag with the inscription: "This is a brilliant era of peace." Under the flag, a girl, representing the Mexican republic, was crowning a bust of President Diaz. Ricardo Mota, J. Espinosa, Loreto Torres and Enrique Torres, who rode elaborately decorated machines, also received second prizes.

Six First Prizes for Carriages.

Six first prizes were accorded to carriages.

A pretty tonneau covered with yellow flowers and white lilies, driven by Mrs. Morales de Doorman, was the first to receive a prize. Other occupants of the carriages were the Misses Morales, in handsome yellow gowns.

Mrs. Delahunty, who occupied a very beautiful red dog cart literally covered with flowers, presenting on one side the American and in the other the Mexican flag, and surmounted by a red parasol, received another first prize.

The Sanjens family, occupied a big mail coach drawn by four horses. The coach was decorated most artistically with white roses. The occupants wore Panama hats, as did the horses. This equipage was awarded a first prize.

Mrs. Maura Alkaro de Garrido presented a victoria, transformed into a bird cage with flowers and pink ribbons, which secured a first prize.

Another first prize was accorded to P. Dracks, who was with his family in a carriage covered with red and white roses.

Miss Maria Alvarez obtained the last first prize, for her carriage decorated with white flowers.

Second prizes were granted to A. Torres, Gutierrez Quintero, the Gerac family, Jesus Garcia and family and to Mrs. Gendrop.

Beautifully Decorated Automobiles.

Only three first prizes were given to the automobiles. N. Garcia and family secured one, well deserved, their automobile being fully covered with flowers. It was one of the best features of the whole parade.

The Nuevo Mundo dry goods store entered an automobile covered with a sphere, decorated with roses, and occupied by three pretty looking girls attired in white. First prize.

Leandro Cuevas had transformed his automobile into a sailing ship, the crew being formed by three boys. First prize.

The El Buen Tono factory entered one of its automobiles, which was very prettily decorated, but the machine only secured a second prize, because the decorations were in the most part made of artificial flowers and the jurors gave preference to decorations made of natural flowers.

Maurice Raoul-Duval entered an automobile covered with red roses and those beautiful little blue flowers to which the Mexicans give the name of "flor de poeta." The machine secured a second prize.

One of the laundries of the city entered wagons with a few flowers and an automobile with a laundry outfit working on it. A second prize was accorded to it on account of its originality.

The Motor Cab company decorated its big omnibus and obtained another prize.

A machine which represented a Thomas flyer steaming from New York to Paris, covered with snow and decorated with flowers, secured another prize.

As soon as the prizes were distributed, President Diaz left the tribune, and the ladies were escorted to the buffet in the pavilion, where a light lunch was served.

The committee examined the decoration of buildings in the afternoon and awarded the prizes. One of the prettiest decoration was that at the Jockey Club. It was formed by heavy festoons of white and pink roses which covered the front of the building, without concealing, however, the original details of the architecture. A first prize was accorded to the club.

The decoration of the balconies of the residence of Mr. Pasquel, on the corner of San Francisco and Bellemitas streets also was beautiful.

The Wagner and Levia house on San Francisco, decorated with roses and flags, secured a second prize.

The Luis Godofroy house in San Francisco, which was decorated with flowers and flags, secured a first prize.

President Diaz sat on the platform between Vice President Corral and Minister Ignacio Mariscal. To the left of Minister Mariscal sat William I. Buchanan and to the right of Vice President Corral was Mrs. Sofia Osio de Landa, wife of Governor Guillermo de Landa y Escandon, who was also in the tribune. The diplomatic corps was represented by Alfred Dumain, minister of France; Mr. Yashida, chargé d'affaires of Japan, and Paxton Hibben, second secretary of the American embassy.

The city council entered a splendid mail coach literally covered with flowers; drawn by four handsome black horses. The whip was José de Jesus Pilego and the coach was occupied by Miss Mercedes Berriozabal, Miss Virginia Iturbide, Miss Teresa Iturbide, Miss Guadalupe Lopez y Gonzalez Cosío, Miss de la Barra and Mr. Enrique Fernandez Castello.

LEPERS IN THE CANAL ZONE.

Near the beautiful little suburb of Palo Seco, six miles from the city of Panama, is a group of eight new buildings erected by American officials for the segregation of lepers in the Canal zone—there are seventeen lepers in the zone—and they are under the care of an American physician aided by several attendants. Nothing illustrates the change that has been wrought in the zone by the introduction of American methods of treating these outcasts of society. When the zone first came under American control there were a number of makeshift pest houses in out-of-the-way stations along the line of the Panama railroad. Some were in the City of Colon, while on the outskirts of Panama eleven patients, nominally in the care of the government of Panama, were huddled together in a small building.

The site selected for the colony is worthy a fashionable sanitarium. On rising ground, the broad meadows which surround three sides of every building look across the bay, with its ever increasing shipping, to the City of Panama in the middle distance. Further on the winding coast line stretches till it is lost in the tropic haze. To the rear, beyond the little suburb, the low country stretches indefinitely toward the hills, its slow-winding rivers and scattered clearings showing like lines on a map.

The colony is utterly isolated—the chief reason for the selection of the spot. The whole width of the bay protects Panama from infection, while to the rear the Rio Grande and the little Farfan river separate it from Palo Seco. On the side toward the bay a short stretch of beach offers a landing place to small boats. A part of the island has been cleared and each leper will receive a small lot to take care of and till. So far as vegetables and poultry are concerned the colony is expected soon to be self-supporting.—New York Times.

IMPORTERS & EXPORTERS TAKE NOTICE!

The first direct line between Scandinavia and Mexico has just been established. Cheap freight rates and direct communication will greatly favor an immense export and import trade. It will be to the advantage of companies interested to consider the commercial opportunities now offered, as to date no companies have been organized to utilize existing advantages, and without delay go to the establishment of communications.
